

Evidence of Teaching Excellence

As evidence of teaching excellence, I provide the mean scores received on anonymous student evaluations from each course that had a response rate above %50, on four different topics. (Unfortunately, evaluations were not available for my summer teaching.) Scores ranged from 1 to 5, with 5 being the most positive evaluation. The Writing Program's evaluations usually had a higher response rate than the College's evaluations, so I have used their scores for the overall instructor rating; the other scores are from the College's evaluations. Complete student evaluations (from the College and the Writing Program), including student comments, can be found at my website: <http://matthewbaddorf.net/>
